flora is a collection of a twenty five poems about life love and death there are concepts of nature and nurture mental health battles and growth throughout rubble flora is a selection of poems from the distinguished half century long career of german poet volker braun born in the former east germany braun is a humane witty brave and disappointed poet in the east his poetry upheld the voice of the individual imagination and identified with a utopian possibility that never became reality he might be said to have found a truly singular voice amid the colossal upheavals of 1989 exploring the triumph of capitalism and the languages of advertising terror politics and war at the same time braun is a sensual poet in tune with the natural landscape he has his own touchstones in world literature and many of his poems set quotations from rimbaud shakespeare and brecht into his own context where they work as ironic illuminations of a present plight the literary principle of his work lies in the friction of these different voices whether cast into free form collage or classical verse cumulatively rubble flora offers a searing vision of these transformative decades this collection is primarily a celebration of all things floral yet is much more than that being also a hymn to life for the poems are written from unusual and sometimes challenging perspectives the poems in the 1st section flower power people power directly connect to flowers and plants either by extolling their virtues or by connecting flowers to people in an alternative way the second section roses and thorns gives an in depth retrospective on the inherent joys and sorrows of life s journey from cradle to grave seen from the perspective of a woman in her third age whose life has been punctuated by chronic illness grief and loss yet they are very much an anthem to survival a way of seeking peace and closure by exploring more difficult themes through the medium of poetry
