epub and pdf available open access under cc by nc nd licence the globalized era is characterized by a high degree of interconnectedness across borders and continents and this includes human migration migration flows have led to new governance challenges and at times populist political backlashes a key driver of migration is environmental conflict and this is only likely to increase with the effects of climate change bringing together world leading researchers from across political science environmental studies economics and sociology this urgent book uses a multifaceted theoretical and methodological approach to delve into core questions and concerns surrounding migration climate change and conflict providing invaluable insights into one of the most pressing global issues of our time in twelve essays influential scholars in political science explore the meaning of political leadership from the kaleidoscopic perspectives of the leaders institutions goals procedures problems and traditions involved the approaches as varied as the subject itself coalesce around the central question of how leaders interact with transform or are controlled by the organizations they lead as more governments companies and individuals scan the globe for access to primary resources such as minerals and timber food power and water and destinations for work holidays and homes pressures on places and communities grow at the same time global environmental risks most notably climate change produce new networks and unfamiliar forms of politics communication media are integral to this change this book explores how geographically diverse groups and individuals interact in and through media to influence the negotiations and decisions affecting often distant landscapes and communities drawing on extensive fieldwork in the australia asia region the book includes case studies on the environmental protests that follow the international flow of people and resources including timber fish coal water and tourism it asks how communities of concern are evoked which transcend local places and national boundaries environment and politics 4th edition is a concise introduction to this ever expanding interdisciplinary field explaining and illustrating how concepts conflicts movements political systems and the practices of policy making can be analysed in a systematic way this book provides a comprehensive overview of the key themes that shape the field and examines a diverse range of environmental problems and policy solutions found in different countries and cultures the new edition has been extensively revised to include up to date explanation of green political theories and traditions and the debates that shape action on the ground it contains an expanded discussion of environmental movements that work in the global north the global south and transnationally greater attention has been given to the roles of corporations non governmental organizations the media consumers and citizens in order to reflect the changing nature of environmental governance the text also focuses throughout on debates surrounding the concepts of environmental security environmental justice and environmental citizenship the authors examine the institutional responses of parliaments administrative legal and electoral systems the more informal politics of social movements and the politics of markets and the corporate sector as they respond to or resist the greening of societies this engaging text has been fully updated to offer readers a greater understanding of international national and local environmental politics as well as expected future developments at all levels environment and politics continues to use illustrative examples of conflicts people and events spanning north and south america europe asia africa and australia giving it global perspective and relevance each chapter includes questions for debate as well as a list of key words and resources for independent research this successful textbook remains a key resource for undergraduate and postgraduate studies across politics environmental studies development studies and human geography courses violent internal conflicts in more and more countries are ruining the lives of millions of people and undermining the ability of their governments to provide security and a tolerable economic existence the contributors to this book take a new view of the reasons for this grave development in africa the balkans central asia and elsewhere they question traditional analyses of conflict which rely primarily on ethnic religious and cultural explanations since these do not take account of the increasingly obvious link between the growing scarcity of renewable resources and violent conflict in developing countries shortages of cropland fresh water woodfuel pasture and marine resources cannot be ignored at the same time this book argues that one cannot understand domestic conflicts simply in environmental terms for environmental scarcity functions in a society within a complex matrix of historically derived economic and political situations in particular an unequal social distribution of resources exacerbates scarcity and fuels popular conflict this path breaking collection brings together environmental politics and democratic theory to reveal the deficits of citizenship and how democracy must be extended to achieve a socially just ecologically sustainable society in canada negative reaction to undesirable facilities in one s neighborhood not in my back yard isn t limited to the united states japanese communities have also resisted siting decisions for power plants and have often delayed or killed projects for which a legitimate social need exists nimby politics in japan is the first detailed account in english of energy siting disputes in postwar japan based on an investigation of a hundred conventional and nuclear plants the book draws on a wide range of local and corporate sources as well as interviews with participants to reveal the bargaining processes involved in social choices and their public policy outcomes s hayden lesbirel examines why some siting decisions have taken an extraordinarily long time to complete while others have proceeded rapidly he focuses on the intensity of conflict relative strengths among participants and the role of compensation and he shows how innovative uses of compensation often enable negotiated compromises to be reached stressing the importance of dynamic bargaining and creative responses to social and political problems lesbirel shows the value of negotiated compromises in japanese consensual politics presidents and their administrations since the 1960 s have become increasingly active in environmental politics despite their touted lack of expertise and their apparent frequent discomfort with the issue but how have modern presidents actually handled the concerns politics posed by environmentalism in all its complexities
